

The Wyoming Health Council and
Wyoming Department of Education -
A Partnership to Reduce Adolescent Risk Behavior Presents:
Meeting the Needs of Students with Disabilities In Human Sexuality Education

August 13 & 14

Parkway Plaza Hotel and Convention Centre, Casper

This highly interactive workshop considers as top priority the need to include students with disabilities in human sexuality education programs. The workshop focuses on both the myths and misconceptions about students with disabilities as it relates to human sexuality education, as well as the history of exclusion and neglect that they have faced on this important topic.

The workshop focuses on the following aspects:

1. Are You An Askable Teacher?
2. Six-component model of human sexuality education
3. Laws and guidelines.
4. Handling Resisters
5. How and Where to Provide Services
6. Identifying Different Needs of Different Exceptionalities
7. Teachable Moments
8. Materials and Resources

Adaptation/Modification of teaching techniques for various special populations on the following scope and sequence for comprehensive human sexuality:

- Self-concept
- Communications
- Physical Growth and Development
- Personal Relationships
- Emotional Development
- Sexuality
- Sexual Relationships
- Abuse and Violence
- Parenthood Education

Objectives

By the completion of the workshop, participants will:

1. Determine the “askability” when it comes to teaching human sexuality education;
2. Be able to explain a six-component model of human sexuality education
3. Become aware of various laws/regulations that apply to special populations
4. Be able to demonstrate how to delay with resisters to human sexuality education and special populations
5. Be able to demonstrate how to modify and adapt teaching techniques on human sexuality education that work with various special populations
